Financial Aid 101

Paying for college can seem like an overwhelming task. Luckily, there are many different ways to get the money you need. Completing and submitting a Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) is the single most important thing you can do to get help paying for college!

Grants: Provided by the state or federal government. Money that does not have to be repaid, based on financial need (determined by the FAFSA).

Scholarships: Financial award applied for based on criteria such as academic achievement, talent, financial need, etc. Begin your search directly from individual college websites. Many private business and corporation scholarships can be accessed online or through scholarship apps.

Work-Study: Allows eligible students to earn money through a part-time job. Work-study jobs are usually on campus, have flexible hours, come with financial aid benefits, and give you work experience related to your major in college (such as working in a chemistry lab or campus business office). Check with the financial aid office at your college to find out more.

Student Loans: Money for college which must be repaid, often at a low-interest rate. There's a variety of student loans, be sure you understand the loan terms and expectations for repayment.

For more information visit ccstudentcenter.weebly.com/financial-aid-101.html. Complete your FAFSA application at fafsa.gov after October 1.

It's not too late to take the ACT again before submitting college applications! Register today at act.org.
